

PRICE THREEPENNY

honorable THOMAS WARE Town's Alder Hotel, Raleigh

names are appended to the casting, with power to add to and delete the Balmain Committee to T. W. Smart."

COMMITTEE.
George Malloch
W. A. Abbott
John Black
W. Ghadow
E. Holloway
H. Marshall
A. Gey
J. Eestie
J. G. Cohen
R. T. Ford
H. B. Cotton
H. Woolnough
Pierce Gould
James Elder
E. Goddard
John Little

J. Fay
William Russell
W. Wilson
A. Reynolds
T. A. Butterfield
F. Leach
J. Snashall
James Barr
James Storm
William Lamb
W. Lookie
W. Darnen
C. M. Lachlan
R. T. Moodie
D. Moodie
H. Ferdiar
A. Ormsby
James Reynolds

John Kenney
G. A. Gregory
James Sullivan
D. Sullivan
James Barry
David M'Makin
W. Goodwin
Henry Phillips
George Childers
John Elvins
Henry Thomas
D. Hodgkins
Charles Saunders
C. G. Clarke
W. Reekie
J. Carverth
Frederick W. Elliott.

E. Robertson
William Hay
John Lawson
W. Watts
John Falconer
M. Morrison
Harry Stewart
Patrick M. Namara
William Marshall
William Marshall
Thomas Long
John Cornell
William Cornell
P. Connelly
H. Thompson
P. Blakie
Peter M. Heath

Charles Schuman
J. W. Wellings
T. J. Jacques
C. Burrell
J. George
H. Summerfield
Thomas Moran
Henry Curry
W. J. Fyne
James Conway
James Watkinson
Leonard Butler
F. Bragg
Charles Ormsby
John Gaddy
Thomas Ironfield
W. H. Sawyer
James Young

John Wilson
John M'Keon
J. C. Eastmure

WYAN RONALD, Secretary.

MEETING.—A MEETING of the
of the Hon. T. W. Smart
City Hall, Balmaln, on TUESday Instant, at half-past seven

RONALD, hon. sec., Balmaln.

MEETING AND BALMAIN are resolved to oppose having resolved not to do so.
-street, South Head Road,

D. has empowered Messrs.
J. and ALLISON to act under a Deed of Assignment in absence from the colony.
CHAS. RICHARDSON.

---

pending with the undersigned,
from the colony, will please address to Messrs. Telford and Dumeac,
CHAS. RICHARDSON,

---

NOTICE.—The public are requested to buy instruments from Messrs. J. and Allison, as that firm since the year 1848. The only agent at name is "Ralph Allison and Sons,"
London.
J. and ALLISON and SONS.

DIST CONNEXION.—We, the undersigned Ministers of the Gospel, finding that a report is in the labours of the Rev. R. R. Hartley, Minister of Sydney, in the District Committee, have resolved to send a deputation in April next, and having called a meeting of the Synod, and a Committee of the Synod, constituted for that of R. Hartley, and circulated without his knowledge, we feel it to be our duty to the public, and his numerous friends, to state that R. Hartley was appointed to the English Conference of 1862, not to the District Committee, London, or to move him from Sydney, and we do not intend to acknowledge

W. J. DILLON, Newcastle.
C. DEAN, Garsden.
D. WATERS, Garsden.
J. CAUSLAND, Goulburn.
G. JAMES, Murrumbidgee. whom it may concern, I hereby do relinquish my position till I return from England.
ROBERT HARTLEY.
Murrumbidgee, March 25.

---

LASTERS.—In consequence of trouble among certain flocks in the vicinity of the above, it is is understood have been appointed person to watch all the
in their runs, near Mudgah, Loody Creek, Lonsdale, and Ry-mington through any of these strictest examination, and if these steps will be taken to have names will be held responsible may sustain.

Slipping sheep will be allowed to me; and any that may be found abroad here, will be immediately

N. P. BATLY
EDWARD KING COX
H. W. BLOOMFIELD.

---

ARDON and GOTCHE have no advertisements or subscriptions

Mr. ARTHUR CURTIS is recognized no

E. W. BLOOMFIELD

CTION.—Selling of the entire
at prices. A further allowance
W. R. PALING, Piano Warehouse-square.

[illegible][illegible]

certain extent subject of regret, though his latest act was not conformable to the modern strictness of English morality. The consignments of negroes to the Mexican demand certainly bears a strong resemblance to the questionable practice of slave-trading. Nor is it sufficient excuse that the victims, having been kidnapped together with their parents, and were, were already accustomed to an arbitrary transfer of their residence and allegiance. Some of them may, perhaps, survive to introduce a new admixture into the mestizo population of Mexico; but it is probable that not a single exile will return to attest to the wrongs of his former countrymen with the wonders of a new and better world. If France was willing to buy negroes, and not to export them, she might have been enabled at least equally willing to sell the commodity which has long been craved on for the purpose of making the Suez Canal a free highway to India. It is not surprising to treat the despatch of the negroes to Mexico as a voluntary transaction. If Said Pacha had been versed in history, he might have defended his conduct by many German precedents. The Emperor of Russia, together with other potentates, conciliated the favour of Frederick William I. of Prussia, by sending him giant negroes, and, some years afterwards the Landgrave of Hesse sent an equal number of negroes to the King of Sardinia, to fight English battles in America. The objection that the Viceroy compromised the neutrality of the Sultan between France and Mexico has not been proved. The Sultan, if he had been a French Republic, were likely to survive, Jaurez and his successors would find it difficult to call Turkey to account. If humanity, justice, and European or rather English interests, together with the necessities of the sale of a few negro soldiers from Egypt, may perhaps be a prudent and judicious arrangement. American Abolitionists will have a fresh opportunity of proving their charge, by the sale of the negroes in a conspicuous manner, to attribute to the selfish cupidity of England. It must, however, be confessed that General Butler lately included France in his official denunciation of the two most hypocritical nations of the world. Sir Henry Bulwer, in his speech at Alexandria, lately spoke of Said Pacha in language which, after reasonable deduction for the place and the occasion, was not altogether fair. He said that, on a recent visit to England, the Viceroy impressed those who were unfamiliar with the Eastern potentates with the conviction that a grey barbarian of force was as puerile as an effeminate and weakling. It is true that the squandered vast sums in the Exhibition, it was easy to forget that he had not come abroad to practise self-denial, and that, notwithstanding his personal frugality, he might understand his proper part in the Exhibition, and that, in the reign of Queen Victoria, his dominions have increased in prosperity, and diplomatic complications have been successfully avoided. Like his immediate predecessor, Said Pacha, he has been successful, and stood that it was not for the interest of his dynasty to relax further the slender bonds of allegiance which still unite Egypt with the Turkish Empire. Mehmet Ali has been treacherously delivered into his hands, hoped to supersede the Turkish Sultans, if not in the possession of Constantinople, at least in the possession of the Asiatic provinces. If, for Lord Palmerston's resolute opinion, he would probably have succeeded in his immediate object, to find himself afterwards absolutely dependent on the patronage of France. The storm that in 1840 drove Said Pacha from his Egyptian dominions, and from the day of the peace which defined his relations with the Porte, no fresh attempt has been made to disturb the existing distribution of power in the East. Said Pacha has been content that the countenance of England was not less valuable than the ostentatious support of France, and every facility has been afforded for the maintenance of the Egyptian army, and the sending to and reinforcements through Egypt on the outbreak of the mutiny. When Said Pacha lately came to Europe, he was lodged with royal honours, and treated with the greatest respect, and, probably neglected during his visit to Constantinople, he afterwards maintained his impartial position, nor can it be doubted that he would have sold a negro regiment on the same terms to either of his protecting allies.

The succession of a new ruler in an Asiatic State always causes reasonable anxiety. There is neither a regular system of hereditary monarchy, nor the continued existence of a tolerated monarchy. Mehmet Ali's genius, however, appears thus far to have exercised a traditional influence over his descendants. The task is far easier than the control of the disaffected races, who are in Egypt is untroubled by Greeks or Slavonic Christians, and the peasant population is one of the most docile and industrious on the face of the earth. A province which Said Pacha has been able to govern, and which, like oligarchy may be considered as proof against the caprices of an arbitrary despot. The valley of the Nile retains the fertility of four thousand years ago, and the fertile soil and the fertile population, and the soldiers for the support of the Government, or for disposal on the other side of the world. If the new Viceroy is but moderately prudent and economical, he will not be inclined to increase the taxes, or to trust the care of his independence to the mutual jealousy of European Powers. His predecessor was, according to Sir Henry Bulwer, too easy and good-natured, and too much inclined to allow the semi-civilised ruler of a wealthy country to be surrounded by importunate adventurers; but the Suez Canal will probably for many years serve as a standing warning to a despotic Viceroy, and the Suez Canal has left behind large liabilities on the foreign account in the company; and he allowed foreign speculators a dangerous lodgment within his own dominions. If, consequently, the French Government, or any other State, or any other State, the enterprise should be found impracticable, the French Government, or any other State, may become formidable rivals to the Government. In the more probable contingency of ultimate failure, the Government, which they occupy will sooner or later be exhausted, and the Government, which they occupy will allow foreigners the fullest freedom of trade, and in withholding from them all exclusive privileges. If the study were congenial to Eastern understanding, no man could be more competent to judge of the state of Egypt as a knowledge of the simpler principles of political economy.

The most fatal of many defects in the Eastern system of government is the want of a hereditary succession. When the occupant of the throne is followed, not by his son, but by the eldest member of the family, the subjects incur all the evils which attend a system of elective monarchy. The time being the time being is induced not to improve his power, but to extract from it by any means in his power a fortune for Egypt, and his children. The Viceroy of Egypt have often accused the Government of the want of a hereditary succession, the material resources of the country, by candidly admitting their indifference to any improvement which cannot be entrusted to a child, and there are, for the most part, no immediate gain to themselves; and it is not to be expected that the Government will be induced to an evil which is inherent in the ruler and his children. The power of arbitrary government cannot be entrusted to a child, and there are, for the most part, no immediate gain to themselves; and it is not to be expected that the Government will be induced to an evil which is inherent in the ruler and his children. It is possible that in course of time European influence or institutions may tend to improve the present dangerous excuse. In the meantime, however, the Government, which they occupy will allow foreigners the fullest freedom of trade, and in withholding from them all exclusive privileges. If the study were congenial to Eastern understanding, no man could be more competent to judge of the state of Egypt as a knowledge of the simpler principles of political economy.

The most fatal of many defects in the Eastern system of government is the want of a hereditary succession. When the occupant of the throne is followed, not by his son, but by the eldest member of the family, the subjects incur all the evils which attend a system of elective monarchy. The time being the time being is induced not to improve his power, but to extract from it by any means in his power a fortune for Egypt, and his children. The Viceroy of Egypt have often accused the Government of the want of a hereditary succession, the material resources of the country, by candidly admitting their indifference to any improvement which cannot be entrusted to a child, and there are, for the most part, no immediate gain to themselves; and it is not to be expected that the Government will be induced to an evil which is inherent in the ruler and his children. The power of arbitrary government cannot be entrusted to a child, and there are, for the most part, no immediate gain to themselves; and it is not to be expected that the Government will be induced to an evil which is inherent in the ruler and his children. It is possible that in course of time European influence or institutions may tend to improve the present dangerous excuse. In the meantime, however, the Government, which they occupy will allow foreigners the fullest freedom of trade, and in withholding from them all exclusive privileges. If the study were congenial to Eastern understanding, no man could be more competent to judge of the state of Egypt as a knowledge of the simpler principles of political economy.

The most fatal of many defects in the Eastern system of government is the want of a hereditary succession. When the occupant of the throne is followed, not by his son, but by the eldest member of the family, the subjects incur all the evils which attend a system of elective monarchy. The time being the time being is induced not to improve his power, but to extract from it by any means in his power a fortune for Egypt, and his children. The Viceroy of Egypt have often accused the Government of the want of a hereditary succession, the material resources of the country, by candidly admitting their indifference to any improvement which cannot be entrusted to a child, and there are, for the most part, no immediate gain to themselves; and it is not to be expected that the Government will be induced to an evil which is inherent in the ruler and his children. The power of arbitrary government cannot be entrusted to a child, and there are, for the most part, no immediate gain to themselves; and it is not to be expected that the Government will be induced to an evil which is inherent in the ruler and his children. It is possible that in course of time European influence or institutions may tend to improve the present dangerous excuse. In the meantime, however, the Government, which they occupy will allow foreigners the fullest freedom of trade, and in withholding from them all exclusive privileges. If the study were congenial to Eastern understanding, no man could be more competent to judge of the state of Egypt as a knowledge of the simpler principles of political economy.

The most fatal of many defects in the Eastern system of government is the want of a hereditary succession. When the occupant of the throne is followed, not by his son, but by the eldest member of the family, the subjects incur all the evils which attend a system of elective monarchy. The time being the time being is induced not to improve his power, but to extract from it by any means in his power a fortune for Egypt, and his children. The Viceroy of Egypt have often accused the Government of the want of a hereditary succession, the material resources of the country, by candidly admitting their indifference to any improvement which cannot be entrusted to a child, and there are, for the most part, no immediate gain to themselves; and it is not to be expected that the Government will be induced to an evil which is inherent in the ruler and his children. The power of arbitrary government cannot be entrusted to a child, and there are, for the most part, no immediate gain to themselves; and it is not to be expected that the Government will be induced to an evil which is inherent in the ruler and his children. It is possible that in course of time European influence or institutions may tend to improve the present dangerous excuse. In the meantime, however, the Government, which they occupy will allow foreigners the fullest freedom of trade, and in withholding from them all exclusive privileges. If the study were congenial to Eastern understanding, no man could be more competent to judge of the state of Egypt as a knowledge of the simpler principles of political economy.

The most fatal of many defects in the Eastern system of government is the want of a hereditary succession. When the occupant of the throne is followed, not by his son, but by the eldest member of the family, the subjects incur all the evils which attend a system of elective monarchy. The time being the time being is induced not to improve his power, but to extract from it by any means in his power a fortune for Egypt, and his children. The Viceroy of Egypt have often accused the Government of the want of a hereditary succession, the material resources of the country, by candidly admitting their indifference to any improvement which cannot be entrusted to a child, and there are, for the most part, no immediate gain to themselves; and it is not to be expected that the Government will be induced to an evil which is inherent in the ruler and his children. The power of arbitrary government cannot be entrusted to a child, and there are, for the most part, no immediate gain to themselves; and it is not to be expected that the Government will be induced to an evil which is inherent in the ruler and his children. It is possible that in course of time European influence or institutions may tend to improve the present dangerous excuse. In the meantime, however, the Government, which they occupy will allow foreigners the fullest freedom of trade, and in withholding from them all exclusive privileges. If the study were congenial to Eastern understanding, no man could be more competent to judge of the state of Egypt as a knowledge of the simpler principles of political economy.

The most fatal of many defects in the Eastern system of government is the want of a hereditary succession. When the occupant of the throne is followed, not by his son, but by the eldest member of the family, the subjects incur all the evils which attend a system of elective monarchy. The time being the time being is induced not to improve his power, but to extract from it by any means in his power a fortune for Egypt, and his children. The Viceroy of Egypt have often accused the Government of the want of a hereditary succession, the material resources of the country, by candidly admitting their indifference to any improvement which cannot be entrusted to a child, and there are, for the most part, no immediate gain to themselves; and it is not to be expected that the Government will be induced to an evil which is inherent in the ruler and his children. The power of arbitrary government cannot be entrusted to a child, and there are, for the most part, no immediate gain to themselves; and it is not to be expected that the Government will be induced to an evil which is inherent in the ruler and his children. It is possible that in course of time European influence or institutions may tend to improve the present dangerous excuse. In the meantime, however, the Government, which they occupy will allow foreigners the fullest freedom of trade, and in withholding from them all exclusive privileges. If the study were congenial to Eastern understanding, no man could be more competent to judge of the state of Egypt as a knowledge of the simpler principles of political economy.

The most fatal of many defects in the Eastern system of government is the want of a hereditary succession. When the occupant of the throne is followed, not by his son, but by the eldest member of the family, the subjects incur all the evils which attend a system of elective monarchy. The time being the time being is induced not to improve his power, but to extract from it by any means in his power a fortune for Egypt, and his children. The Viceroy of Egypt have often accused the Government of the want of a hereditary succession, the material resources of the country, by candidly admitting their indifference to any improvement which cannot be entrusted to a child, and there are, for the most part, no immediate gain to themselves; and it is not to be expected that the Government will be induced to an evil which is inherent in the ruler and his children. The power of arbitrary government cannot be entrusted to a child, and there are, for the most part, no immediate gain to themselves; and it is not to be expected that the Government will be induced to an evil which is inherent in the ruler and his children. It is possible that in course of time European influence or institutions may tend to improve the present dangerous excuse. In the meantime, however, the Government, which they occupy will allow foreigners the fullest freedom of trade, and in withholding from them all exclusive privileges. If the study were congenial to Eastern understanding, no man could be more competent to judge of the state of Egypt as a knowledge of the simpler principles of political economy.

The most fatal of many defects in the Eastern system of government is the want of a hereditary succession. When the occupant of the throne is followed, not by his son, but by the eldest member of the family, the subjects incur all the evils which attend a system of elective monarchy. The time being the time being is induced not to improve his power, but to extract from it by any means in his power a fortune for Egypt, and his children. The Viceroy of Egypt have often accused the Government of the want of a hereditary succession, the material resources of the country, by candidly admitting their indifference to any improvement which cannot be entrusted to a child, and there are, for the most part, no immediate gain to themselves; and it is not to be expected that the Government will be induced to an evil which is inherent in the ruler and his children. The power of arbitrary government cannot be entrusted to a child, and there are, for the most part, no immediate gain to themselves; and it is not to be expected that the Government will be induced to an evil which is inherent in the ruler and his children. It is possible that in course of time European influence or institutions may tend to improve the present dangerous excuse. In the meantime, however, the Government, which they occupy will allow foreigners the fullest freedom of trade, and in withholding from them all exclusive privileges. If the study were congenial to Eastern understanding, no man could be more competent to judge of the state of Egypt as a knowledge of the simpler principles of political economy.

The most fatal of many defects in the Eastern system of government is the want of a hereditary succession. When the occupant of the throne is followed, not by his son, but by the eldest member of the family, the subjects incur all the evils which attend a system of elective monarchy. The time being the time being is induced not to improve his power, but to extract from it by any means in his power a fortune for Egypt, and his children. The Viceroy of Egypt have often accused the Government of the want of a hereditary succession, the material resources of the country, by candidly admitting their indifference to any improvement which cannot be entrusted to a child, and there are, for the most part, no immediate gain to themselves; and it is not to be expected that the Government will be induced to an evil which is inherent in the ruler and his children. The power of ent text month, and placed under the care of a tutor. I (says a Paris correspondent) am not able to mention the name of the gentleman selected for this honorable post, but it is positively said that he is not a bishop.

[illegible]

MARSHAL CANNIBERT—Every British officer who had the good fortune to bring his bones away from the Crimea, and to be buried in the cemetery of the dead, also brought away with him pleasant memories of General Canrobert's courtesies. In all his relations with the British army General Canrobert proved himself a gentleman of the highest order, and of himself, and his urbanity and gentleness made even French officers forget their prejudices, and admit that it was possible for an Englishman to be a gentleman. The French officers, however, were not so much pleased that the General whom they held in such affectionate remembrance, now Marshal, had such Hymen's bonds to those which already bound him to matrimony, as to the fact that Marshal Canrobert, on Tuesday morning, at the British Embassy in Paris, was the guest of many distinguished persons belonging to both nations.

THE LADY MAYOR'S JUVENILE BALL.—A juvenile ball was given on Wednesday evening at the Metropolitan House, by the Lady Mayoress. It was an extremely brilliant assemblage, and the number present was about 1200. In the earlier part of the evening, the dancing commenced, and the dancing was of a superior character on the tight-rope. The concluding performances by M. Henri Wohlgemuth were also productive of great amusement. Dancing commenced with the waltz, and closed with the quadrille, and the spirit until midnight. The band of the Westminster Guards, under the direction of Mr. Godfrey, was present.

The Patriarch of Jerusalem is coming to Paris to protest against what he is pleased to consider ecclesiastical robbery. He has written to the Pope to demand that he retain the exclusive right to the eastern entrance of the Holy Sepulchre. The Holy Sepulchre's cupola appears likely to become as warlike an emblem as the Cross.

Mr. Grove, the young medical student who so opportunely assisted her Royal Highness the Princess of Hesse, when she was thrown from her carriage in the Strand, a few days since, has been presented with valuable testimonials by the Government.

On New Year's Day, the American Minister at Copenhagen presented to the King of Denmark, in the name of President Lincoln, a pair of Colt's revolvers.

A cross of a new order," says the Press, "may be seen in the Galerie Montpensier of the Palais National, which is the cross of the Kommandeur. He has just given an order in Paris for 12,000, worth of this cross, which has seven points, is surmounted by a Royal crown, and suspended by a red ribbon with universal stripes of a darker shade."

The Rev. Dr. Richard M. Anderson, the Holy Father has presented Sir G. Bowyer, Bart., M.P., with a superb golden chalice for use in the New Hospital Church of St. Elizabeth, Great Ormond-street, Dublin. The chalice is the gift of the Holy Father, and a legacy to the Pope from the late Cardinal Fransoni.

PHYSICIANS' FEES.—In the Second Court of Exchequer, on Tuesday, Dr. Gibbon, a physician, brought an action to recover £21 for fees from the executor of Mr. Daniel Bury, deceased, who was a physician. His defence was that the plaintiff was only entitled to fees as an honorarium; and because, although the last Medical Act gave power to physicians and surgeons to sue for their fees, it did not take away the by-laws of the College of Physicians, that college had passed a by-law enacting that physicians should not recover even though a contract existed. Mr. Baron Alderson is of opinion that the plaintiff is entitled to his fees, and doubted whether the college had the right to make it. He would, however, reserve the point. The jury gave a verdict for the amount claimed.

HOW NEW YORK IS GOVERNED.—It is curious how our city is governed. A majority of both houses are Catholic Irishmen. The sheriff is a Catholic Irishman—Lynch; the corporation attorney is a ditto—Hunt; the corporation clerk is a ditto—Hunt; the chamberlain is a ditto—Devlin. The two candidates for United States Senator are Wood and Peter B. Sweeney. The latter is a Catholic Irishman. Mr. Hall is a Catholic Irishman. The Mayor is a Catholic Irishman. This city is ruled by the Irish.—Manchester.

A NEW QUESTION.—A curious and novel question was recently put to the Court of Common Pleas. A decree nisi had been granted by Sir Crosswell. Grace well some time since against a faithless wife. Such a decree is, of course, in its nature provisional, and the wife has a certain period when, if nothing has happened to her, she may return to her husband, and the marriage contract fully dissolved. But in the case in question the woman did not wait for the lapse of the legal time, but finding one who was willing to marry her, she returned to him, and the decree nisi was in force. The second husband is now as anxious to get rid of her as the first was; but instead of charging her with fresh crime, he takes her to court, and asks the Court to declare the first was illegal, as at the time it was contracted the original marriage was not completely dissolved. An interesting argument took place on this point, at the instance of the learned counsel for the plaintiff, and the judges did not affect to have any doubt as to the validity of the decree nisi. The novelty of the point, they would take time to reduce their judgment to writing.

IN POSITION.—In the battle of Fredericksburg General Burnside was to have the regulars, then under command of Major Andrews, ordered to turn to a particular position at midnight preceding the terrible engagement, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which were stationed the rebel sharpshooters, and not only so, but the brigade was ordered to turn to the position, and to hold it at all hazards. It crossed their minds at the point, and the whole command were ordered to turn to the position. The cause of this last order became apparent. The brigade was within eighty yards of a stone wall, and behind which

[illegible]

RIVALRY

support the Hon. the Minister of Works in sure that may give to this district a fair proof the public money now or hereafter to be in the formation of roads, whether highway, or railway."

Soliders, Timber Merchants, and others are reminded of Dunn and Co.'s sale by auction, on Guthrie's Wharf, at half-past two o'clock prompt, of the cargo of timber, from New Zealand, consisting of kauri junk, spars, timber, white pine junk, &c., &c.—ADVS.

Horse Sale.
THIS DAY.
BURT and CO.'s Sales by auction, at their Bazaar, Pitt and Castlereagh streets, THIS DAY, Monday, at 11 o'clock.
2 bay geldings from the Clarence, saddle, single and double harness
1 grey ditto, from the Hunter
6

1 bay mare, ridden
20 other horses of various descriptions
Buggy, horse, and harness
American express wagon. Also,
Drays, spring-carts, harness, &c.

---

Paddington.

Mr. M. Fitzpatrick's Stock-in-Trade of Boots and Shoes, and the Household Furniture, &c.

---

*.* For Sale, on MONDAY, the 30th instant, at 11 o'clock.

Consisting of
The Stock-in-Trade, and
The Fixtures, Fittings, and Glassware
The Household Furniture, &c.

MR. R. MURIEL will sell by public auction, by order of Mr. Fitzpatrick, THIS DAY, the 30th instant,
His entire stock-in-trade of boots and shoes, and household requisites.

Terms, cash.

W. G. & S. L. G. S.

WOOLLARA.
LOT 1.—GLEN TERRACE, POINT PIPER ROAD.
LOT 2.—VALUABLE BLOCK OF LAND, POINT
PIPER ROAD.
TITLE—The residue of 99 years' Lease of the Point Piper Estate.
MORT and CO. have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 1st April,
the above described property.

* These houses are most delightfully situated; they command most beautiful views, and are finished throughout in the very best style.

2n1. All that block of land having a frontage of 66 feet to POINT PIPER ROAD, by a depth through to PIPER-STREET, to which street there is also a frontage of 66 feet.

* This block of land is enclosed with substantial hard wood paling fence, and faces in Piper-street Norman's building. It is most admirably adapted for one large house or for subdivision.

---

7 YEARS LEASE
MAGNIFICENT GRAZING AND AGRICULTURAL FARM.

---

800 ACRES,
RED BANK, UPPER PICTON.

---

Terms at Sale.

---

MORT and CO. have been instructed by

WEDNESDAY, 8th APRIL.
The lease for seven years of that very valuable farm of 560 ACRES at RED BANK, UPPER PICTON.
This property is well known as one of the finest grazing and agricultural farms in the county of Camden, that any lengthened description is not necessary. It has been recently under lease to Messrs Callaghan and Pollock, and is now within a comparatively short distance of railway communication with the metropolis.
Full particulars may be had of MORT and CO.,
15, Abchurch Lane, London, E.C. 4.

IN THE ESTATE OF THE LATE MATTHEW BRYCE, Esq.
By Order of the Executors.

VALUABLE CITY FREEHOLD PROPERTIES
MILLER'S POINT, comprising the undermentioned Houses and Building Lands, as per plans now on view at the Rooms, Pitt-street.

BLOCK D.—A Block of Land with 48 feet frontage to Miller's road, upon which are erected three substantial Houses.

BLOCK E.—Six excellent Building Allotments with

TITLE—Full particulars may be obtained on application to Messrs. NORTON and BARKER, solicitors, Elizabeth-street.

Terms at sale.

MORT and CO. have been instructed by the Executors to the estate of the late Matthew F. BRICE, Esq., to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, First

The following very valuable freehold properties, situate at MILLER'S POINT, CITY OF SYDNEY; MILLER'S ROAD, and ARGYLE-STREET.

BLOCK D, as per plan.

A BLOCK OF LAND having about 48 feet frontage to Miller's Road, by a depth of about 73 feet.

** Upon this block are erected THREE SUBSTANTIAL STONE HOUSES, two stories high, containing three rooms each, with kitchens, out-offices, yards, and well of good water.

CROWN-STREET, MILLER'S POINT.

UPON THIS ALLOTMENT there is a SUBSTANTIAL STONE HOUSE, containing three rooms and skillions out-offices, &c.

one containing four rooms, and the other two rooms.
ALLOTMENT No. 7 has a frontage of about 27 feet to CROWN-STREET, by a depth of about 65 feet.
ALLOTMENT No. 8 has a frontage of about 26 feet to CROWN-STREET, by a depth of about 95 feet.
ALLOTMENT No. 9 is situated at the rear of allotment No. 4, and has a frontage of about 38 feet to a reserved lane.
 * * Three allotments are situated immediately opposite the residence of John Brown, Esq., and are in the VERY CHOICE POSITION AT MILLER'S POINT.
 * * Capitalists and others on the look out for FIRST-

CLASS CITY INVESTMENT CO. will freely meet with a good opportunity as this sale will afford for securing really good freeholds, returning a CERTAIN RETURN ON THEIR OUTLAY.

---

Wheat.

---

On account and risk of the former purchaser.

---

TUESDAY, 31st March.

---

On Campbell's Wharf, at half-past 10.

---

To Millers and others.

L. E. THRELKELD and CO. have been instructed to sell by auction, on TUESDAY MORNING, at half-past 10 o'clock, on Campbell's Wharf,

On account and risk of the former purchaser, 400 bags Adelaide wheat.

Terms at sale.

Bottled Ale.

On account of whom it may concern.

To Wine and Spirit Merchants, Publicans, and others.

TUESDAY, 31st March.
First lot to be offered.

L. E. THRELKELD and CO. will sell by at 11, auctions, at the City Mart, on TUESDAY
31 cases London and Colonial Company's ale, Victoria brand, each 4 dozen.
Terms, cash.

Eleme Raisins.

Ex Ziba, from London.
 On account of whom it may concern.
 TUESDAY, 31st March.
L E. THRELKELD and CO. will sell at 11, by auction, at the City Mart, on TUESDAY
 Ex Ziba, from London,
 More or less slightly sweated,
 V over G,

180 boxes Eleme raisins.
Terms at sale.
Pickles.
Ex Cordova, Macanista, from London.
On account of whom it may concern.
Damaged by sea water.
TUESDAY, 31st March.
E. THRELKELD and CO. will sell by at auction at the City Mart, on TUESDAY at 11, 5 in diamond, BM under.

Nos 1 to 120-103 cases pint pickles, each 3 dozen 121-132 10 ditto quart ditto, each 2 dozen
268-75 4 ditto W. I. ditto, each 3 dozen.
Terms, cash.

Wool, Sheepskins, Tallow, Hides

TUESDAY, 31st March, at 11 o'clock prompt.

MESSRS. W. DEAN AND CO. will sell by auction, at their Produce Stores, Circular Quay, on TUESDAY, 31st March, at 11 o'clock prompt,
Bales wool
Sheepskins
Hides
Tallow, &c.

Terms at sale.

165 Packages (more or less) Tena.
On account of whom it may concern.
Ex Sabrina, Genita, master, from Hongkong.
All more or less damaged.

MESSRS. W. DEAN AND CO. have re

M received instructions from the importers, to sell by auction, at their Warehouse, Pitt and O'Connell streets on THURSDAY, 2d April, at 11 o'clock,
On account of which of the following names, concern,
Ex Sabina, from Hongkong,
CS in diamond,
About 166 packages Tea, comprising very choice com-gous, hyson, two twankies, gunpowder &c.
All more or less damaged
Terms, cash.
To be sold by
Messrs. T. & Co. Ex Sabina.
Special Notice.
Quakers, Green, &c.
Shippers, and others.
To Merchants, Tea and Coffee, Country Buyers

MESSRS. W. DEAN and CO. with much pressure announce that samples of the above teas are now ready for examination, and can be had for inspecting upon application at their Warehouse, Pitt and O'Connell streets.

The auctioneers particularly request the trade to take note of the only opportunity of testing these SPLENDID TEAS, and with confidence assert that they will be found to be superior to any cargo previously offered for sale in this market, and even exceeding the celebrated shipment as John Houston.

next, 2nd April.

Mauritius Sugars.
Crystals, Counters, and Ration.
Extensive Unreserved Sale.

On THURSDAY, 2nd April.

To Merchants, Grocers, Storekeepers, Country Buyers
and others.

MESSRS. W. DEAN and CO. have received instructions from the Importers to sell by auction, on Thursday, 2nd April, at 11 o'clock, About 170 tons Mauritius sugar, comprising numerous samples ranging from white crystals to good ration.

Without reserve.
Terms, Cash, at 10%.

922 Acres Land.
In the beautiful agricultural district of Port Macquarie formerly known as the horse station of Laaks Innss.

For Positive Unreserved Sale.

MESSRS. W. DEAN and CO. have been favoured with instructions to sell by auction at their Warehouse, Pitt and O'Connell streets, at 12 o'clock on THURSDAY, immediately following the Government Land sales.

992 acres of land, situated at Ton-tu-ric Creek, near Lake Innes, formerly well known as Major Innes horse station, and is about seventy nine miles from Port Macquarie.

The Land is carefully selected by a gentleman well versed in such matters, and will be sold with all improvements.

1. The above property is a splendid investment for capitalists, and will positively be sold to the highest bidder.

2. The above is a very large tract.

Immediately following the Government Land Sales on WEDNESDAY next.

MESSRS. W. DEAN AND CO. will sell by auction, the following properties,

Page's Tannery, Bathurst
120 acres, with 1000 head of stock, Paddington
5 choice blocks, Randwick lands
Block of 24 acres, St Leonards
Farms, Luddenham.

Bullocks, Steers, Cows, Springing Heifers.

At the Fair Yards, Campbelltown, THIS DAY, 30th instant, at 12 o'clock punctually.

THOMAS DAWSON has been instructed by William Ray, Esq., to sell by auction, at above,

- 90 head of cattle, amongst which are
- 40 bullocks, in good condition, fit for the yoke, very quiet
- and all bred in the district
- 6 working bullocks
- 1 bull of the famous Glenlee breed

The remainder consists of cows, steers, heifers, several springing.

The majority of the above stock is descended from the noted Glenlee dairy herd, and the whole are in good condition.

No reserve. Terms, cash.

South Country Horse.

At the Homebush Sale Yards, on WEDNESDAY next 1st April, at 2 o'clock.

THOMAS DAWSON has received instructions from John McDonald, Esq., to sell by auction, at above,

- 30 head of broken and unbroken horses, and
- 2 very beautiful ponies.

Fat Cattle. Fat Cattle.

At the Household Sale Yards, on WEDNESDAY next 1st April, at half-past 10 for 11 o'clock.

THOMAS DAWSON has received instructions from John McDonald, Esq., to sell by auction, at above, 100 head of prime fat cattle, in lots to suit purchasers.

To Butchers.

150 Head Prime Fat Cattle.

O. B. EBSWORTH has received instructions to sell by public auction, at Flood Victoria Yards, Petersham, THIS DAY, 30th March, at 2.30 for 2 o'clock, 150 head prime fat cattle.

In lots to suit purchasers.

The attendance of the retail trade is directed to the above mob of very prime cattle.

PITTS and SULLIVAN have received instructions from John McMahon, Esq., to sell by auction, at Mr. John Fullagar's, THIS DAY, the 30th March, at 11 o'clock, 110 head of fat cattle, in lots.

PITTS and SULLIVAN have been instructed to sell, by Mr. C. Eather,
300 head of prime fat, THIS DAY, the 30th
March, at Mr. J. Fullagar's, in one or more lots, suit purchasers.

THURSDAY, April 23.

To Steamship Companies, Shipowners, Speculators &
Victoria, New South Wales, Queensland, and New Zealand.

Iron Paddle Steamer
ULLUDEN.

JAMES LAWRENCE has received instructions to sell by auction, at Lloyd's Rooms,
Melbourne, on THURSDAY, 23rd April, at 12 o'clock,
The above and powerful Clyde-built iron paddle steamer

ULLUDEN,
built by Messrs. Caird and Co., of Greenock, of the following dimensions—Length over all, 150 feet beam, 17½ feet; depth, 8½ feet; light draught water, 6 feet 3 inches, with 50 tons cargo, 6½ feet to bottom.

This beautiful boat is fitted up in a very complete manner, with saloons, separate sleeping-berths, with all the modern conveniences and luxuries.
Her hull and machinery are in perfect order, having just undergone a most extensive overhaul throughout, and can be headed over on a day's notice.
For inventories and particulars apply to the auctioneer, Lloyd's Rooms, Collins-street West.
Terms, very liberal.
George-street, Bedford.
Desirable Family Residence.
Title unexceptionable.

F. B. HIDDLETON has been instructed to sell by public auction, on the premises, on WEDNESDAY, 1st April, at 12 o'clock,
A two-story brick-built house, situate in George-street Bedford, third house from Wells-street, having frontage of 35 feet by a depth of 65 feet, and forming a Desirable Residence.
The House contains six rooms and kitchen, wall of water in the rear is a good yard, and the usual out-buildings.
Apply to the Auctioneer, GEORGE ST. BEDFORD.

SHIP EVERTON, 904 tons register.—The Wreck of above ship, now lying at Moreton Island, Moreton Bay, will be sold by public auction, she now lies, on SATURDAY, 4th April, at Brisbane.

Queensland, for account of whom it concerns.
WILLIS, MERRY, and CO.

